SPEAKERS

W. Wilson Goode, Sr. is the President and CEO of Amachi, Incorporated, which mentors children of incarcerated parents. He also is CEO and chairman of Self Incorporated, serving the homeless and is an ordained Baptist Minister at the First Baptist Church of Paschall. He was an officer in the U. S. Army, the first African American Chairman of the Pennsylvania Public Utility Commission, and Philadelphia's first African American Mayor, serving two terms. He has earned a B. A., an M. A., and a Doctor of Ministry degree.

Dr. Ed Stetzer is the Chair of Church, Mission and Evangelism at Wheaton College, a speaker, and an author, Executive Director of Billy Graham Center for Evangelism, and publisher of Evangelical Missions Quarterly. Ed has served in numerous capacities over the years, including Executive Director of Lifeway Research. He has two Master's degrees and two doctorates. He is a prolific author and well-known conference and seminar leader. He has trained pastors and church planters on six continents.

Yasmine Arrington was born and raised in Washington, DC. While in high school, Yasmine, the child of a prisoner, founded the non-profit ScholarCHIPS, providing college scholarships and mentoring to high school seniors who have a parent(s) in prison.

Yasmine is a poet, blogger, motivational speaker, model, and is featured in magazines and on ABC7 News. Yasmine has a B.A. in Strategic Communications and History and is currently pursuing a Master's of Divinity at Howard University.

James Ackerman serves as President and CEO of Prison Fellowship. Amid a 25-year global career in media and entertainment, Ackerman's first exposure to Prison Fellowship in 2004 inspired him to serve long-term as a volunteer. He spent 10 years mentoring prisoners and former prisoners. Ackerman and his wife, Martha, have also served as local coordinators for PF's Angel Tree. James was mentored by Prison Fellowship's founder, the late Charles Colson.
