

Leading social entrepreneur Joseph Williams is on a mission to restore the lives of those affected by crime. His passion for helping the incarcerated, formerly incarcerated and their families reach their God-given potential is born from his own past battles with crime and addiction. He has created and implemented a number of innovative approaches that have helped others to experience total restoration. Joseph was recognized as an outstanding social entrepreneur in 2006 by Ashoka: Innovators for the Public, a global organization that promotes unique ways of addressing pressing social problems. He inspires and teaches numerous organizational leaders and criminal justice professionals around the world. Joseph currently serves as the Executive Director for the Correctional Ministries and Chaplains Association.
